biography

"Self-taught electronic producer, Noah Baine's has crafted his own sonic universe: one where dancefloor-ready heaters are laced with melody, soul, harmony and emotion. The result of challenging himself to find new sounds, the Italian artists never over thinks his creative process. This genre-resisting outcome is clear when listening to Noah's bass-shaking debut single 'Selective', which is an undeniable club anthem. He has the same ethos in mind for DJing. "I always say I'm just a guy from the crowd playing," he says, adding that every set is different. He also likes to get other people involved but "at the same level – to be surrounded by them and make them part of the vision".
