Live, Always

biography

HVOB have been conquering the universe of electronic music for years. They have not only established themselves in the international music scene through their releases, but also as a live act. The two musicians behind HVOB are Anna Müller and Paul Wallner. Together they compose and produce the music and are therefore jointly responsible for the unique sound of HVOB.

They play sold-out tours in North, Central and South America, Asia, Europe and South Africa and have played many of the world's renowned festivals – from a headlining show at Sonar Barcelona and Clockenflap in Hong Kong to Burning Man, Primavera and Fuji Rock in Japan. They have also recorded a BBC Essential Mix, several Boiler Rooms and a Cercle set in Mexico.

After five studio albums and one live album, the international electronic duo HVOB is expanding the spectrum of its means of expression with a new artistic cycle: THE SILVER CAGE. Central to this phase is a light show created and programmed by HVOB themselves – a visual counterpart to their music that forms an immersive live experience.

Following the singles "What They Gave Me" and "Void", HVOB now release "Abyss", the third track within this ongoing cycle. The light show that gives the cycle its name is the result of an exploration of the possibilities of an even stronger visual complement to music than HVOB have already done.
